Victimized S. S. Keller.

S. S. Keller, the furniture man, was the victim of a cleverly conceived confidence trick, the first, he says, that has ever been trick, the first, he says, that has ever been played on him. Last Monday a shabbily dressed man with a dinner pail and a general appearance of labor called at the store and wanted to look at a bedstead and table. He was suited after some little time, and the value of the furniture he chose was $10. He did not want to take them that day, but said for Keller to wait until the next day, which would be pay day, before delivering them. Wednesday he called again, with the same dinner pail, and told Keller to send the furniture to 505 South Twenty-first street. He presented a check on the First National bank niture to 505 South Twenty-first street. He presented a check on the First National bank for $33, payable to Matis Mateson, and bearing the signature of John Daugherty. Keller supposed the man was all right, and did not hestiate to give the laboring man the $23 in change. Joseph Redmond Shot by Several Honey Thieves at Honey Creek. D. C. Redmond was in the city yesterday from his farm near Honey Creek, and told a story of a shooting affray that took place on his farm Wednesday night. Several days ago he saw three or four men trying to cut down a tree containing a bee's nest for the honey it contained, and drove them off. Wednesday night between 10 and 11 o'clock they came back and repeated their attempt to corner that particular part of the honey market. Joseph Redmond of Omaha, father C., was camping a short distance away, and hearing the noise, called on a neighbor named Groat to come and help him drive the intruders away. The two sallied forth, and the volubility with which they discharged their mouths in the direction of the bee tree caused the thieves to retaliate with a more effective warner. with a more effective weapon. A single bar-rel of a shot gun was fired at Redmond, and two buck shot took effect in his leg and two more in his stomach, while a fifth struck Groat's kneecap and went into the bone. WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS MEETS Opening Session Devoted to Presenta tion of Annual Reports. LOUISVILLE, Sept. 12.-The Relief corps met today at Library hall. Mrs. President Wallace presided. The exercises were opened with salutes, flag drills and lableaux in the curriculum of patriotic teaching. The opening session was devoted to welcome addresses, responses, and to the hearing of the annual reports of the national officers. The total membership at the present time according to the reports is 110,774, or a gain of 35,696 members over last year. The total number of posts is given in the report as 3.141, or a set gain of 37 during the year. The amount expended in relief is $64,969. The total amount expended during the year, including relief and current expenses, was $188,329, while the total amount of relief furnished, since its organization, is $1,210,

Regarding the National Woman's Reliet Corps home at Madison, O., the report says: Since the opening of the home ninety-four applications have been approved, nine have died before coming to the home, and seventy-two have arrived and been cared for fifty-two present during the past year, and forty-three inmates are now in the home.

Judge Edwards today granted Ais F. Judge Edwards today granted Ada men killed by the explosion of the caisson yesterday. The committee was directed to Clark of Canton, O., a temporary restraining order against the following officers of the Women's Relief corps, entothing them from preventing her from sitting and voting in the nvention

The plaintiff says that under the rules of the organization a member who has been a president of a local corps has a right to vote in the department conventions and also in the national conventions. She says she was president of the Canton corps and has since seen a member in good standing. Notwithstanding this, she charges that she has been notified by letter that she is not entitled to a vote in the convention and urged to remain away. She has also been charged as being not a member in good standing, which she says is false, Mrs. General Sherwood of Canton, while not among the national officers enjoined, is con-sidered a leader of the opposition to Mrs. Clark. These two women had previously had a long fight in the department of Ohio.

COOK CALLED THE WHOLE PLAY Police Sergeant Raids a Poker Room Over McCaffrey's Saloon. Last night the police raided a gambling joint which was in operation in a room or the second floor of the building at 111 South Sixteenth street, which is occupied on the first floor by Owen McCaffrey as a saloon. Six men were caught while playing poker and were placed under arrest on the charge of gambling. All gave assumed names and were later released on bonds. The room in which the game was going on is difficult of access. The entrance to the building is in the rear, where a flight of stairs lead up. A short distance up the hall a descending flight leads to another hall, which turns twice before the room is Sergeant Cook, dressed in citizen's clothes, entered the room shortly before 11 o'clock. Six men were seated around a table playing poker, each with a stack of chips before him, and a pile of money in the center. "What is the limit, gentlemen?" queried the sergeant as he entered the room.

"Oh, it's small," weakly answered one of the men, for they all recognized the officer. "Well, I will have to call you," said the sergeant as he hauled in the money.

The banker was not in the crowd. He had gone out a few minutes before after some cigars, and as he noticed the sergeant en-tering he decided not to come back. The only gambling articles found in the chips.

NO ATTEMPT TO FORM A TRUST. Mr. Weller Speaks About the Work of Druggists' Convention. Charles F. Weller returned yesterday from Denver, where he was in attendance at the convention of the National Wholesale Druggists' association. Before the adjournment Mr. Weller was elected chairman of the board of control, a position which he has held for three successive terms. three successive terms.

In discussing the work of the association Mr. Weller said that there was no attempt to form a trust. "Our work," he added, "was along the legitimate lines of trade, without any inclination to control business in the interest of a trust." Mr. Weller reports having had a delightful trip, and aside from the work of the con-vention, the members of the association toured to the top of Pike's Peak and went around the loop. Not a Stranger in Jail.
